

FLEET AND AVIATORS READY FOR U-BOATS

Former German Submarines to Be Hit by Bombs and Big Guns.

DESTROYERS TO JOIN

After Airplanes Have a Chance Battleships Will Have a Trial.

TESTS START TUESDAY

U. S. Naval Experts Expected to Obtain Valuable Information for Use in War.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD, NORFOLK, Va., June 19.—With the naval scene set, with the army bombers eager for their first flight in the air over water, airmen of both services to-night are awaiting orders to start to sea to destroy nine former German warships and drop bombs on the old American battleship, Iowa.

Practically the entire Atlantic fleet of battleships and the Twenty-fifth Division of torpedo boat destroyers are riding at anchor in Hampton and Lynn Haven Roads, waiting for the warlike air raid to start. The fleet will go out to sea to witness the destruction of the German ships. If bombs dropped by the aviators fail to destroy the German U-boats the Twenty-fifth Destroyer Division will make their destruction certain with torpedoes and shells.

If aviators fail to send the former German battleship Ostfriesland and the cruiser Frankfort to the bottom, gunners on the big ships of the American fleet, such as the Pennsylvania, Nevada and Oklahoma, will open fire on them.

Battleships May Get Chance. It is highly probable that the final destruction of the Ostfriesland and Frankfort will be left to the big ships after the aviators have dropped sufficient bombs to satisfy naval experts that the ships would have been rendered harmless had she been a real enemy. The battleships Pennsylvania and Nevada probably will open fire with fourteen inch guns on the big German vessels if the final destruction of the ships is left to the Atlantic fleet.

There are seven destroyers in the Twenty-fifth Division, all of them practically new and among the most powerful fighting ships of their kind in the world. The destroyer Satterlee is attached to this division. It was the Satterlee that broke all speed records in overhauling the Atlantic fleet before it reached Cuba. Others are equally fast and they are equipped with the most improved torpedo tubes and long range guns.

The Atlantic Fleet will be under the command of Admiral Hilary P. Jones during the bombing maneuvers. It will ride at anchor four miles from the spot where the former German submarine U-117 is anchored. The U-117 is the first of the German boats selected for destruction. Her fate will be sealed before noon Tuesday. The U-111, U-145 and U-43 will be subjected to shellfire attack together. The U-117 was selected for destruction alone because she is the most powerful of the U boats and because she wrought more havoc during the world war than either the U-111, U-145 or U-43.

Will Give Bombs Good Test. American gunners were eager to sink the U-117 and naval officials also saw an opportunity for observing havoc wrought by air bombs on ships of the U-117 class.

The American supply ship Lebanon and two naval tugs to-night are escorting the German submarines to a position off Cape Charles. The Lebanon is carrying an assortment of apparatus that is to be used in anchoring the German targets so gunners aloft can have a fair opportunity to hit them. Lieut.-Commander Jules James has been named censor officer for the bombing tests. He will issue information to newspaper men and will censor despatches.

With several destroyers and naval tugs standing by, the four German U-boats marked for destruction last night rode out a severe storm in Lynn Haven Roads.

Nine airplanes will leave the naval base at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning for a point sixty-eight miles off Cape Charles light, where the U-117 will be awaiting destruction. Each of these planes will carry three bombs. Five army planes from Langley Field will leave about the same time. Planes are scheduled to depart every twenty minutes if the first squadron fails to complete the destruction of the German boat.

Naval officers are here to observe the bombing from a scientific viewpoint. The destruction of the German craft is expected to furnish ordnance service with information that may serve the American navy in the event of a real aerial attack against an enemy over water.

ACCUSED OF KILLING WIFE, HE ENDS LIFE

William Shaw, Facing Arrest on Circumstantial Evidence, Hangs Himself.

William Shaw, whose wife was murdered a week ago in the office of the George K. Krier Company at the Long Island Railroad cut and East Ninety-fourth street, in the Canarsie section of Brooklyn, hanged himself to a bedpost and cut his throat yesterday morning. His body was found by a woman who went to his shack in the rear of the Krier Company's offices to call him to breakfast. Beside the body was found this note:

"I did not kill my wife, but I cannot stand the strain. My brother-in-law, Mr. Hill, will be here soon. Have him arrange for the funeral."

The body of Mrs. Shaw was found beside a safe from which the combination had been tried with a wrench. She also had been used to break her skull. It was at first thought the crime was the work of a burglar, but the police abandoned this theory when they discovered that the window had been broken from the inside and that the screens had been ripped away from the inside. They then suspected Shaw, and said last night they had drawn such a net of circumstantial evidence about him that his arrest was only a matter of hours.

Shaw had been questioned by the police and by detectives of the District Attorney's office every day since the body of his wife was found. He maintained that he had nothing to do with the crime, but the police said that he became nervous when they took his finger prints and told him they were going to compare them with prints found on the wrench.

The police theory is that Shaw killed his wife because she taunted him for being unable to find a better job than peddling fish or acting as caretaker in a factory. They believe that he struck her with a wrench during the quarrel without any intention of killing her, and then when he saw what he had done he arranged things to make it appear the work of a burglar.

SOUTHERN SPRUCE USED FOR NEWSPRINT PAPER

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 19.—The Birmingham Age-Herald to-morrow morning will be published on paper manufactured from Southern spruce pine, which grows along the banks of the Warrior River and in the hilly sections of north Alabama, covering many thousands of acres.

The paper was manufactured from wood shipped to Northern mills and is declared by experts to be the equal in every respect of the newsprint made from Canadian spruce.

The Alabama pine, which is unfit for lumber, contains an unusually fine fibre, has a very thin bark, virtually no heart and contains only a trace of resin. It requires one ton of wood to make a ton of paper.

DELUGE OF BETTING AT AUTEUIL RACING

Grande Semaine Opening Draws Great Crowd Loaded With Wealth for Wagers.

FASHION PARADE BIG HIT

Gen. Vanderbilt and the Perry Belmonts Among Americans Who Entertain Parties.

Special Table to THE NEW YORK HERALD, Copyright, 1921, by THE NEW YORK HERALD, New York Herald Bureau, Paris, June 19.

The Grande Semaine opened at Auteuil this afternoon with a crowd so great that it could not be accommodated in the stands and so loaded with wealth that the betting booths closed before each race with hundreds clamoring for a chance to place wagers.

With the Grand Steeplechase as the attraction it was announced that more than 8,000,000 francs passed through the pari-mutuel for this one race. Even the coat that Roi Boire wore by a fluke when the favorite Seros XII. took the wrong turning, carrying two other leaders with him, failed to spoil the crowd's holiday temper, although general satisfaction was expressed with the track stewards.

As a matter of fact, nothing especially new was developed by Paris style makers, blacks and whites, with mauves as a close third, finding general favor, with brilliant shawls covered with black and white beads as a novelty in the cloak line.

And to further lighten husband's purse there is evidence of a new return to costly painted ostrich plumes, which will hereafter entirely circle the hats, draped at least half a yard over the left shoulder.

The big feature of the fashion parade was the arrival by airplane from London of ten English mannequins from the Revillon establishment. The entire color scheme of the English girls was black and white.

One model wore a dress which was made half of each color, with one black shoe and stocking and the other shoe and stocking white, and a parasol likewise divided as to color. A veritable sensation was created by Mrs. Smith Wilkinson, who has become well known in Parisian restaurants because of her extraordinary costumes and extravagant jewels. Her gown was of zebra-striped silk and showed considerable bosomy, with the same zebra stripes around the ankles and ribbed in bands of diamonds. The dress buttoned straight down the front with black enamel and diamond buttons. She is known as the "Diamond Queen," even her teeth being studded with small brilliants which glitter with every smile.

Among the Americans present were Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Reginald Vanderbilt, Stephen Elkins, Judge Coyne, Mr. and Mrs. Berry Wahl, Mr. and Mrs. Singer, Mrs. Hermann Gelich, Mr. and Mrs. J. Addison Goetz, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Baumann, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Maclean and Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Levy. Most of these entertained parties in the Bois or at the Ritz following the races.

COCA COLA LITIGANTS DECIDE TO DROP SUITS

ATLANTA, June 19.—Steps will be taken during the week to put into legal form essentials of an agreement reached Saturday night by attorneys representing the Coca Cola Company of Delaware and the Coca Cola bottling companies under which is settled the litigation between the companies involving the perpetuity of existing contracts between them, according to information to-night.

The proceedings will be friendly and will provide for the dismissal of injunction proceedings now pending before the Federal court by consent of all parties and the old relations existing between the companies prior to the litigation virtually will be restored.

'BUD' STILLMAN SAYS HE HAS NO FATHER

is attacked, will move before Referee Daniel J. Gleason that a verdict be handed down in favor of the infant. Many lawyers connected with the case feel that in view of the turn the testimony took last week the referee will grant the motion, and the legitimacy of the child will not be a point at issue.

Lawyers on Mrs. Stillman's side feel certain that the referee must give a favorable ruling on the motion to exclude from the record the alleged admission concerning the parentage of the baby made to Dr. Hugh L. Russell, the Buffalo osteopath. This testimony was heard at one of the sessions in the Bar Association rooms on May 4, but with it expunged there will be nothing in the record that is damaging to the child.

If the referee grants the motion for a dismissal of the allegations affecting Guy it will not necessarily end the suit, as there will still be the question of a divorce for the banker. No motion for the dismissal of the allegations against Mrs. Stillman will be made by John P. Brennan, her chief counsel, until the defense has called several witnesses in its effort to prove the testimony of the Canadian witnesses called by the banker was a frameup.

Rumors are again afloat in New York and in Poughkeepsie, where the hearings are being held, that overtures for a settlement will be made again by the Stillman side of the case. These rumors are based on the turn the suit has taken recently and the announced desire of the former banker that he wished to avoid the "curious gaze of the multitude." It is known that Mr. Stillman decidedly does not wish to be cross-examined by Mr. Mack, which he will be if the suit is fought to a finish. The only other course open is to settle with his wife.

The testimony of the Canadian witnesses will be vigorously attacked by Mrs. Stillman's attorneys, particularly that part of it in which it is stated that Fred K. Beauvais was seen in Mrs. Stillman's bedroom at Grande Anse, the Quebec camp of the Stillmans. The defense will show, it is alleged, that this room was separated from that of Miss Anse by a partition and that there was a doorway between them hung with portieres. Miss Stillman occupied her room at the time that the guide was alleged to have been with Mrs. Stillman.

No Mention of Carresses.

Another point of the testimony which was attacked vigorously is that given last Thursday at Poughkeepsie by Della Rock, a former maid at Mondanville, the Pleasantville home of the Stillmans. Miss Rock said she saw Mrs. Stillman come out of a bedroom in the blue cottage one morning and walk into her bedroom. The bed, she said, had not been slept in. But when she glanced into the guide's room she noticed the bed was ruffled. The defense will prove that the only double bed in the house was the one in Mrs. Stillman's room.

What is said to be one of the unusual features of the testimony thus far is that no mention has been made of kissing, caressing or of hand holding episodes. Even the witnesses who testified to having seen Beauvais in Mrs. Stillman's room could not say that they ever had seen him kiss or caress her, although one of them asserted he had looked through a window blind for more than ten minutes.

CARTER BENEFIT EARNS $8,000 FOR SOLDIERS

Performance in Actor's Memory Given at Casino.

The performance in memory of Frank Carter, given at the Casino Theatre last night for the benefit of a service club for soldiers, which he was promoting when he was accidentally killed, earned $8,000 for the fund. The audience filled every seat in the house and included a large number of members of the theatrical profession.

The medal made from a piece of steel from the battleship Maine, that was sunk in Havana Harbor, and presented to Mr. Carter by soldiers, was presented to the theatrical profession by Miss Marilyn Miller, widow of Mr. Carter. The presentation was made by Miss Ethel Barrymore. De Wolf Hopper accepted the medal in behalf of the actors and it will be kept in custody of the Lambs Club. Among those who appeared in the performance were Savoy and Brennan, Rae and Johnny Dooley, Wellington Cross, Harry Delf, Fanchon and Marco, Harry Fox, Green and Byler, Mrs. Marie Nordstrom, Miss Florence O'Donoghue, Wheeler Wadsworth, Irving Fisher, W. C. Fields, Hal Forde, Allyn King, Miron, Miss Fay Marble, Price, Miss Belle Baker, Gus Edwards, Pat Rooney, Alexis Kosloff, Raymond Hitchcock and Will Morrissey.
